VIII. PSYCHOSIS DE HUNTINGTON

Abnormalitates physicae, ex quibus psychosis nomen sumit, praecipue consistunt in variis motionibus corporeis involuntariis<sup>5</sup>. Tenuis initio et circumscripta manibus et vultui, haec motio corporea in dies ingravescit et ad universum corpus extenditur<sup>6</sup>. Conclamata infirmitate incessanter concitatur corpus<sup>7</sup>. Sermocinatio redditur defec-
