VIII. PSYCHOSIS DE HUNTINGTON

Korea de Huntington est infirmitas quae a patre ad filium transmittitur¹. Absolute erroneum est talem infirmitatem a priori censi psychosim, quum adsunt casus ubi motus tantum choreiformae dantur, integra remanente facultatum intellectualium capacitate². Altera ex parte totus conspectus clinicus constitui potest mentali depauperatione, absentibus signis neurologicis³. Heic tamen loquimur de psychosi in qua comperiuntur symptomata et neurologica et psychica. Est enim psychosis endogena et organica causata degeneratione systematis nervosi⁴.

Abnormalitates physicae, ex quibus psychosis nomen sumit, praecipue consistunt in variis motionibus corporeis involuntariis⁵. Tenuis initio et circumscripta manibus et vultui, haec motio corporea in dies ingravescit et ad universum corpus extenditur⁶. Conclamata infirmitate incessanter concitatur corpus⁷. Sermocinatio redditur defec-
